Exagen Inc. Partners with Three California Medical Groups to Offer AVISE® Testing as Covered In-Network Benefit for Their Patients

Monday, March 9, 2020

SAN DIEGO, CA - Exagen Inc. (Nasdaq: XGN), an organization dedicated to transforming the care continuum for patients suffering from debilitating and chronic autoimmune diseases by enabling timely differential diagnosis and optimizing therapeutic intervention, today announced three large medical groups across California have contracted with Exagen Inc. to offer AVISE testing as a covered benefit for patients suspected of having autoimmune disease. The agreement provides in-network access for their physician groups to Exagen's AVISE testing, which can facilitate improved care through the differential diagnosis, prognosis, management, and therapeutic optimization of complex and incurable autoimmune diseases. The details of the agreement are confidential.

"We are excited to partner with physician medical groups who recognize the value in providing access to AVISE testing as a covered in-network benefit for their members. We expect this to have a significant impact on patients, enabling rheumatologists to improve care for anyone diagnosed or suspected of having a systemic autoimmune disease, including Systemic Lupus Erythematosus (SLE)," said Ron Rocca, President and CEO of Exagen. "We applaud the initiative of these medical groups in recognizing the value of AVISE testing and our proprietary technology to bring improved provider confidence in diagnosis and deliver insights into disease activity and therapeutic optimization that cannot be delivered by standard reference laboratories."

With clinics across California, AVISE tests will add tremendous value to improve the health of patients in these communities. Lupus is known for being difficult to diagnose because its symptoms differ from person to person, mimic the symptoms of many other diseases and can come and go. A Lupus Foundation of America survey found that on average, it takes nearly six years for people with lupus to be diagnosed, and this partnership seeks to reduce that delay.

About Exagen Inc.

Exagen is dedicated to transforming the care continuum for patients suffering from debilitating and chronic autoimmune diseases by enabling timely differential diagnosis and optimizing therapeutic intervention. Exagen has developed and is commercializing a portfolio of innovative testing products under its AVISE brand, several of which are based on its proprietary Cell-Bound Complement Activation Products (CB-CAPs) biomarkers. Exagen's goal is to enable rheumatologists to improve care for patients through the differential diagnosis, prognosis and monitoring of complex autoimmune and autoimmune-related diseases, including SLE and rheumatoid arthritis.
